References and Significances to the Death, Blood, Body, Cross and Tree

The sacrificial offering of our Lord is foreshadowed in a multitude of ways in both the Old and New Testaments. Like the five offerings, these five stand out predominately like a lamp sending a five fold beam of light on a dark and foreboding night. Against the dark hopelessness of human weakness, sin and guilt, the five fold beams of light and hope are:

- 1) The Death of our Lord
- 2) The Cross of our Lord
- 3) The Tree of our Lord
- 4) The Body of our Lord
- 5) The Blood of our Lord

The following table gives an understanding thought from each of these. The concepts are not meant to be:

- 1) A mere series of data, but a springboard for meditation and expansion.
- 2) A mere intellectual data to be studied as to the reason “why, when or where” of the truths, but for the meditation on the perfections of the Lord as to when, why and where He said them, and the preciseness of the Holy Spirit when these terms are used.

The following are as a divine series of tree trunks with various branches and truths associated with each “trunk”. They are only the ones directly related to the Lord and His cross, not as in Matt. 16:24.

Additional Notes On The Above

It is an acknowledged fact that the work of our Lord is too big for any single biblical picture prophecy. Furthermore, its truths are too vast for any combined descriptive wording in any language, or indeed, for all languages of every nation in every clime of every age. The following is a listing of the pictures of the sufferings of Christ for sin, that I am aware of, in the scriptures.

The expression: “the body of His flesh” also occurs in Eph. 5:30, but it seems to me that it is an indicator of the singularity of the union between Christ and the Church.

These titles and references do not indicate that these are the only ones, however, these are all the ones I have been shown.

NOTE

- a) It is not that Christ being deity was enriched personally. There can be no increase of the deity and glory of His Godhood than He had prior to the incarnation. However, as the Redeemer, He has a name and an exaltation that He did not have before. (Phil 2:9-20)
